Help you to handle complaints, avoid arguments, keep your human contacts smooth and pleasant. Make you a better speaker, a more entertaining conversationalist. Make the principles of psychology easy for you to apply in your daily contacts. Help you to arouse enthusiasm among your associates. Dale Carnegie (1888–1955) was an American writer and lecturer and the developer of famous courses in self-improvement, salesmanship, corporate training, public speaking, and interpersonal skills. Born into poverty on a farm in Missouri, he was the author of How to Win Friends and Influence People (1936), a massive bestseller that remains popular today.

Howard Boward, a 13-year-old boy-genius with a chip on his shoulder is too smart for his own good. He has troubles making friends—possibly because he complains so much. Until one day a science experiment goes haywire, and Howard creates a best friend for himself—Franklin—who also happens to be a monster. Creating Franklin was an accident, not like Howard was playing God or anything—or so Howard tells himself. Franklin and Howard are having so much fun, Howard decides to create more “friends,” using DNA from kids at school. Only, these friends aren’t quite as friendly. Soon there’s a major mess and Howard has to sort it all out before the monsters destroy their human counterparts. But terminating the monsters proves harder than he imagined. They didn’t choose to be monsters; they can’t go against their innate nature. Howard finds himself facing consequences for playing God. Getting rid of the monsters means learning to tame his own inner beast, and Howard begins to understand the meaning of free will and true friendship children and adults of all ages...A fantastic message of hope for future generations to get educated and go out to discover that being different is a point of cohesion, not destruction." -English Literature Corner, Reedsy Editorial Review Children will fall in love with this beautifully illustrated and rhythmic picture book series about a little bear named Brudders, who learns heartwarming lessons of friendship, good manners, responsibility, and faith. Join Brudders in this debut story as he wakes up from his first hibernation season and learns what it takes to make friends for the very first time. Special Features: • Fun, rhythmic writing that's easy to read and will stick in kids' minds • Detailed, artistic watercolor illustrations that take kids on an adventure with every page-turn • Cute and cuddly forest characters that kids can relate to and invite into their lives • High quality stories that teach valuable lessons Early Reader Reviews: "Most engaging and heartwarming...you will thoroughly enjoy reading this book to the children in your life!" -Elisa B., Mother of 2, Goodreads Review "The illustrations by Derek Roberts are so warming and full of expressions, they are perfectly matched by the story line written by K.A. Leigh. Together they accomplish the simple but difficult goal of reaching out to their young audience, while along the way, the adults get the joy of experiencing all the emotions that are so pure and beautifully illustrated. You will want to frame every page!" Monica E. Mother of 3, Goodreads Review "My 4 and 6 year old boys loved the book. They were able to comprehend and verbalize the underlying message after we read the story. They also loved seeing the different animals throughout the book. This is definitely a great book for kids." -Pervis D., Father of 2, Goodreads Review "It's great to see another children's book that is so wholesome and pure! I'm so looking forward to sharing this book with other families with children and/or grandchildren. Thank you for putting out a children's book that's spiritually grounded in faith. The illustrations are incredible and the storyline is heartwarming." Michael R., Father of 3 " A 5 star review! First of all the illustrations are excellent..soft colors and gentle, child characters.
