Offers insights and advice from twenty-one entrepreneurs and experts on building a creative business.

For any organization to perform and compete successfully, it must have the systems and processes in place to translate goals into achievable actions--and to measure and monitor results. Moreover, the organization must be able to adjust and adapt as market conditions, technologies, the competitive environment, government regulations, personnel, and other variables evolve, sometimes gradually and sometimes dramatically. In Delivering Results: Measuring What Matters, Babson College professors and management consultants, Lawrence Carr and Alfred Nanni, show managers how to avoid the common pitfalls and mistakes when setting corporate strategy, and instead create a management system--unique to their organization--that aligns internal resources with objectives, motivates and rewards employees, and continuously provides feedback. Illustrating their concepts with numerous real-life examples (both successes and failures), practical tools and models, and a glossary of key terms, the authors demonstrate that knowing how to create and direct management systems that deliver results is, in itself, a strategic resource.

While there is plenty of opportunity for skilled executive coaches, there are no real standards. An exciting new book whose time has come, THE SHERPA GUIDE delivers a solid standard for professional coaches, including a clear, predictable process for business coaching, a timeline for every coaching engagement, and a path through the pitfalls of a very complex and delicate business. The author takes her lead from the Sherpa, the expert native guides who skillfully assist climbers to the top of Mount Everest by enabling, advising, and assisting but not trying to climb for the client. THE SHERPA GUIDE illustrates how to limit the playing field to professional issues and then to allow the client to do the climbing on their way to the summit. Every climb is unique. This resourceful guide equips readers with the tools to coach their clients to their highest goals. It's an excellent guide for executive coaches, trainers, consultants, and HR directors.
