The search for a means to an end to apartheid erupts into conflict between a black township youth and his "old-fashioned" black teacher.

African-language writing is in crisis. The conditions under which African writing developed in the past (only remotely similar to those of Western models), resulted in an inability of Eurocentric literary models to explore the hermeneutic world of African language poetics inherited from the oral and the modern worlds. Existing modes of criticism in the study of this literary tradition are often unsuited for a nuanced understanding of the intrinsic and extrinsic aspects at play in the composition, production and reading of these literatures. In African-Language Literatures, Innocentia Jabulisile Mhlambi charts new directions in the study of African-language literatures generally and isiZulu fiction in particular by proposing that African popular arts and culture models be considered as a logical solution to current debates and challenges. Mhlambi shows how the popular arts and culture approach brings into relationship the oral and written forms, the local and the international, and elitist and popular genres, and locates and places the resultant emerging, eclectic culture into its socio-historical context. She uses this theoretical approach to explore - in a wide range of cultural products - what matters or what is of interest to the people, irrespective of social hierarchies and predispositions. It is her contention that, in profound ways the African-language literary tradition evinces diversity, complexity and fluidity, and that this should be seen as an invitation to look at systems of meaning which do not hide their connections with the facts of power and material life.

But, powerless against authority, Fiela never comes. Benjamin has to grow up before he can go in search of the truth ...

This is the book that I wrote trying to pour out my pain of being a child of a single parent. It is an IsiZulu Novel that has created. The out side thoughts and a product previews of being a mistaken child. It is pain full to feel like you were the product of mistakes couple that make it hard to make it in life because you have a lot to catch up from. Ngethembe Insika Yomlilo meaning even though I am alone in the world but God is there at all times.In this Novel I had a vision of being one of the authors that contributes peace between the gender battle of man and woman but my purpose was to create love in the pain so we can do what the dogs does during the injury they sit together and lick the wounds for the healing. If we attack our pain as the nation we can live as a nation and embrace our Lord God who sent a Filler of Fire to the children of Israel to be led out of the world of slavery.From chapter one to the end I have one thing that I am showing off with that is God in our pain God is there it does not necessarily means that we must pay revenge to get better but only if we pay attention and strive to see the Devine purpose in it you will say it with me one day My Lord Is My Sherpad he leads me to the ways of righteousness because of his name that alone is the out line preview how the Novel Ngethembe Insika Yomlilo was created.This novel is created inthe basis of poverty and pain that caused by a father who does not partake in the raising of his own child after a child was born. A father who does not give his child a chance to grow well in his presence it is painfu pain where I found the Novel from. It is written in IsiZulu language and is preparing every one of us who grew from the background of that particular situation that drove our nation insane. So this is story of a Nosipho Simelane who grew up in the broken family, her mother was ill and a father was alcoholic because her wife was HIV positive while he was negative. The question was how the wife got HIV if she was faithful in their marriage. So he rejected his only child and family and he eventually rapped his daughter . Until the daughter tells the world about her life by reciting a poem that broke her audience hearts. So they gave her a learner ship to UCT and she gained a good life after that and gained peace to her father and her stepmother that was a reason of the death of her mother and grandmother at about the same time.
