ett mail ifrån Kadir. Denne presenterar sig som barndomskamrat till Jonas far, och på en mycket säregen och rolig hemmagjord fransk-arabisk svenska uppmanar han Jonas att den här gången ägna sig åt ett värdigare ämne, nämligen att skriva en bok om fadern, den berömde fotografen. Jonas börjar skissa på en sådan historia, vilket väcker många minnen till liv från barndomen. Kadirs språkligt minst sagt innovativa brev om uppväxten i Tunisien blandas med Jonas minnen från sin egen barndom, och i växlingen mellan dessa båda temperament och språk - som till slut nästan formas till en kamp - växer en berättelse fram om att komma till och växa upp i ett land där tolerans och mångfald är honnörsbegrepp, men där rasism och främlingsfientlighet är en del av vardagen. När vi närmar oss slutet har Ny demokrati valts in i riksdagen, och i Stockholm går en mördare lös, en mördare med sitt lasersikte inställt enbart på invandrare. Men något är lurrt med denne ständigt brevskrivande Kadir, som alltmer ihärdigt försvarar Jonas pappas handlande. Vem är han? Och vad blev det egentligen av Jonas pappa?

Jonas Hassen Khemiri får en mail fra en som kaller seg Kadir, etter eget sigende en barndomsvenn av Jonas' far. På et spesielt, humørfyllt, hjemmelaget fransk-arabisk-svensk oppfordrer han Jonas til å skrive en roman om faren sin, den berømte fotografen. Jonas prøver seg fram, og finner frem egne barndomsminner om faren, som blander seg med det Kadir skriver om farens barndom i Tunis. Fortellingen blir til mellom disse to temperamentene og språkene. Men hvem er den iherdige Kadir, og hvor ble det av faren? Jonas Hassen Khemiri har skrevet en roman om å vokse opp i et land der toleranse og mangfold er honnørord, men der rasisme og fremmedfrykt samtidig fins i rikt monn. Romanen ble nominert til Augustprisen i 2006.

novelist—also named Jonas Hassen Khemiri—is standing on a luxurious rooftop terrace in New York City. He is surrounded by rock stars, intellectuals, and political luminaries gathered to toast his fiftieth birthday. And yet how did Abbas, a dirt-poor Tunisian orphan and Swedish émigré, come to enjoy such success? Jonas is fresh off the publication of his first novel when answers to this question come in the form of an unexpected e-mail from Kadir, a lifelong friend of Abbas and an effervescent storyteller with delightfully anarchic linguistic idiosyncrasies. The portrait Kadir paints of Abbas—from a voluntarily mute boy who suffers constant night terrors, to a soulful young charmer, to a Swedish immigrant and political exile—proves to be vastly different from Jonas's view of his father. As the two jagged versions reconcile in Kadir and Jonas's impassioned correspondence, we're given a portrayal of a man that is at once tender and feverishly imagined. With an arresting blend of humor and wit, Montecore marks the stateside arrival of an already acclaimed international novelist. Winner of the PO Enquist Literary Prize for accomplished European novelists under forty, Jonas Hassen Khemiri has created a world that is as heartbreaking as it is exhilarating. presents new comparative perspectives on transnational literary studies. This collection provides a contribution to the production of new narratives of the nation. The focus of the contributions is contemporary fiction relating to experiences of migration. When people are in motion, it changes nations, cultures and peoples. The volume explores the ways in which transcultural connections have affected the national self-understanding in the Swedish and Finnish context. It also presents comparative aspects on the reception of literary works and explores the intersectional perspectives of identities including class, gender, ethnicity, "race" and disability. This volume discusses multicultural writing, emerging modes of writing and generic innovations. Further, it also demonstrates the complexity of grouping literatures according to nation and ethnicity. This collection is of particular interest to students and scholars in literary and Nordic studies as well as transnational and migration studies.

Scandinavian societies have historically, and problematically, been understood as homogenous, when in fact they have a long history of ethnic and cultural pluralism due to colonialism and territorial conquest. Amid global tensions around border security and refugee crises, these powerful conversations with nineteen scholars about the past,

At a recent literary conference hosted by Villa Gillet and "Le Monde," organizers asked seventy-seven prominent authors from around the world to choose a word that opens the door to their work. Their crystalline musings, collected here for the first time, offer an extraordinary portrait of writing and reading from the perspective of the artist. Organized alphabetically, the anthology is a pleasurable and instructive book for writers, readers, and anyone seeking an intimate understanding of literature. Literature, Language, and Multiculturalism in Scandinavia and the Low Countries presents a groundbreaking comparative approach to the study of multicultural literature. Focusing on the development of migration literature in Sweden, Denmark, Flanders, and the Netherlands, the volume argues that the political and institutional preconditions for the development of 'multicultural' literatures are still given within the frame of the nation-state. As a consequence, both the field of 'migration literature' and the (multi-)lingual quality of literary texts are shaped differently in each state and in each language area. The volume delineates the development of multicultural literature in Scandinavia and the Low Countries as a function of the specific language situations in these countries as well as the various political, institutional, and discursive contexts. This book not only offers a comprehensive theoretical and methodological analysis of multilingualism and multicultural literature, but also provides overviews sketching the discourse on multiculturalism, language and the development of the literary field in Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands, and Flanders. Besides it presents a broad range of in-depth analyses of selected literary texts from each of these countries.

Migration and Literature offers a thought-provoking analysis of the thematic and formal role of migration in four contemporary and canonized novelists.

devices. This book explores how these forms and devices are employed, challenged, experimented with, and reflected upon in the work of migrant theatre by performance and dance artists. Meerzon and Pewny ask: What impact do peoples' movement between continents, countries, cultures, and languages have on the process of meaning production in plays about migration created by migrant artists? What dramaturgical devices do migrant artists employ when they work in the context of multilingual production, with the texts written in many languages, and when staging performances that target multicultural and multilingual theatregoers? And, finally, how do the new multilingual practices of theatre writing and performance meet and transform the existing practices of postdramatic dramaturgies? By considering these questions in a global context, the editors explore the overlapping complexities of migratory performances with both range and depth. Ideal for scholars, students, and practitioners of theatre, dramaturgy, and devising, Dramaturgy of Migration expresses not only the practicalities of migratory performances but also the emotional responses of the artists who stage them.
