In the world of Mark Strand's Poetry there is perpetual night. It is perpetually cold, and perpetually empty. The house is empty. The streets are empty. The sky is empty and dark. There is absolutely nothing to be happy about. And in this world there is a man, I believe his name is Mark Strand, he lives in strange dreams.

New Selected Poems by Mark Strand: 9780375711275 ... Strand's collection Man and Camel (2006) contains more playful, witty moments than previous books, though, as Lucas pointed out in his VQR review, its "tension, between what is present and what cannot be touched, continues to be the most consistent theme in Strand's work." New Selected Poems (2007) draws on Strand's work from the previous two decades and is full of "buffoons whom the poet nevertheless loves," wrote Dan Chiasson in the New Yorker, adding "they represent his ...

Mark Strand | Poetry Foundation
From 1964, Mark Strand wrote 14 books of poetry, beginning with Sleeping With One Eye Open which was published by Stone Wall Press. His early work is noted for its close association with dreams and dream-logic, while themes of disassociation of self from the world, the passing of time and also the presence of death in life, became more prevalent in his work as it developed.

Mark Strand's poetry speaks volumes even in this thin-ish book of selected poems. It's my favorite of poetry books by living English-speaking writers. His early work reflects influences from Latin Surrealists like Octavio Paz.

"A collection of all of the poet Mark Strand's previously published poems."--

In this compilation of older and newer poems, Strand demonstrates his mastery of cadence and narrative style.

A latest collection by the U.S. Poet Laureate and Pulitzer Prize-winning author of Blizzard of One is comprised of whimsical, prose-style dramas that explore the receding vista of life while posing eloquent, riddle-like conundrums about the human condition.

Strand deftly illuminates the work of the frequently misunderstood American painter, whose enigmatic paintings—of gas stations, storefronts, cafeterias, and hotel rooms—number among the most powerful of our time. In brief but wonderfully compelling comments accompanying each painting, the elegant expressiveness of Strand's language is put to the service of Hopper's visual world. The result is a singularly illuminating presentation of the work of one of America's best-known artists. Strand shows us how the formal elements of the paintings—geometrical shapes pointing beyond the canvas, light
