Daria Martin | Barbican Still from "In My Dreams I See Volcanoes", directed by Lexi Kiddo. Louise Jeffreys, the Barbican's Artistic Director, reflects on the Barbican's 2018 annual theme: Can the arts change the world? That's what we set out to explore this year when we launched our 2018 cross-arts season, The Art of Change. As an international arts centre, we felt well placed to explore the role that the arts ...

While on routine patrol, LAPD Officer Cindy Decker rescues a newborn abandoned in an alley dumpster.

Tyson Rua has more than his fair share of problems growing up in South Auckland. Working a night job to support his mother and helping bring up his two younger brothers is just the half of it. His best friend Rawiri is falling afoul of a broken home, and now Tyson's fallen in love at first sight. Only thing is, it's another guy. Living life on the sidelines of the local hip-hop scene, Tyson finds that to succeed in becoming a local graffiti artist or in getting the man of his dreams, he's going to have to get a whole lot more involved. And that means more problems. The least of which is the leader of the local rap crew he's found himself running with. Love, life, and hip-hop never do things by half.

Love, Betrayal and Loyalty on the Streets of Harlem Darius, a.k.a. Rio, the only child of a singer turned alcoholic, feels he has nothing to hold on to except the idea of escaping the ghetto. Years ago, he took a gun charge for a friend and did some prison time. Unable to find a job when he gets out, Rio turns to hustling as a way out. In the meantime, Rio finds escape in the arms of his soulmate, Trinity. When Trinity's mother died, her abusive father looks to her to play the role of house wife and bedmate. Trinity finds strength to endure in Rio's arms. Together they vow to do whatever it takes to make it out of the ghetto. But soon they find their backs against the wall when the streets come to claim their due.
